PREFACE

In the 1951 Census, the population of each village and town was exhibited in the District Census Handbooks under the eight broad livelihood classes. The smallest unit for which mother-tongue data was available was a "Census Tract", which invariably consisted of a number of Police Stations and sometimes of more than one administrative Subdivision. The National Register of Citizens which was maintained for each and every village in this State also contained no data regarding mother-tongue.

2. The Government of India decided to obtain villagewise language data at the first instance only for the Talukes/Police Stations of this State, which were considered to be multilingual. Since Orissa happens to be a unilingual State, where the linguistic boundary line coincides with the border of the State, the scope of the present collection of data was extended to all the Police Stations of this State which border the neighbouring States of Andhra, Madhya Pradesh, Bihar and West Bengal. It was decided that data should be collected for persons speaking Oriya as their mother-tongue on the one hand and persons having mother-tongue of Telugu, Hindi, Hindi and Bengali for areas bordering respectively Andhra, Madhya Pradesh, Bihar and West Bengal.

3. Though the present linguistic sorting work was undertaken at the instance of the Central Government, the State Government agreed to bear 50% of the cost involved. The State Government also spared my services for appointment as Superintendent of Census operations, Orissa to work under the control and direction of the Deputy Registrar General, India.

4. I joined my new appointment in August 1955. After preliminary work in organising office and recruiting staff after obtaining necessary sanctions, the actual sorting work commenced in about the 2nd week of October, 1955. The present villagewise data was ordered to be extracted by a special sorting of the 1951 Census slips.

5. When sorting operations commenced in 1951, the slips were divided into three categories. The first category were the slips for displaced persons which were very few in this State, and such persons were mainly concentrated at the colonies and transit camps built for them. The second category of slips were the 10% sample slips which were extracted at the time of preliminary sorting. The rest were the general slips constituting almost 90% of the total. Various sorting operations were undertaken in 1951 keeping separate the three categories of slips. Since no separate Census Organisation was maintained for this State after the 1951 Census work was over, and there was no suitable place or organisation to preserve the general slips, on concurrence of the Government of India and the State Government, the general slips were destroyed. Hence for the present operations, only the 10% sample slips were made use of.

6. After the present office was organised, the 10% sample slips belonging to the relevant "Tracts", were taken delivery of from the office of the Board of Revenue, Orissa at Cuttack. Some of the Census records were also brought from the office for reference purposes.

7. For the purpose of the present linguistic sorting, work had to be undertaken in the case of 56 Police Stations contained in eight out of the thirteen districts in this State. A separate statement of the Police Stations, the districts to which they belong, and the State to which they border along with their populations has been appended in this brochure.

8. Only the rural areas constituting the Police Stations bordering the neighbouring States were dealt with for the present linguistic sorting work.

9. After the Census slips were obtained from the Office of the Board of Revenue, they were found to have been put in containers in units of "Tracts". For each "Tract", there were 32 sets of slips divided into the eight livelihood classes, by sexes and by backward and non-backward classes. The bundles also contained slips of areas which were not required for the present linguistic sorting work. On obtaining the records, the first thing that was done was to mix up all the slips of a "Tract" and the slips that are required were extracted by sorting out with the help of the "Second Element Code" which coincides with that of a Police Station or Charge in respect of all the districts except the districts of Ganjam and Koraput in this State. The Second Element Code was for Police Stations in the case of the Sadar Subdivision of Koraput district and for the two other Subdivisions in this district as also for the entire district of Ganjam, the Second Element Code was for Taluks. Since the Police Station was considered to be the unit for the purpose of the present linguistic sorting in this State, the slips relating to the Police Stations bordering on the neighbouring State, were sorted out with the help of the lists furnished by the Collectors of the districts of Ganjam and Koraput. This was the process by which the requisite slips were separated from the larger units.

10. After the slips of a particular Police Station were sorted out, attempts were made to divide them to the level of villages. For this purpose, the slips were first sorted for convenient groups of villages and then resorted for individual villages. After the slips for each individual village was separated, the languages for which the sorting was to take place were considered. With people speaking Oriya as mother tongue on the one hand, sorting was done respectively for Telugu, Hindi, Hindi and Bengali respectively for the Police Station areas bordering the States of Andhra, Madhya Pradesh, Bihar and West Bengal. In this State, there are large number of persons having Tribal Languages as their mother tongue. Thirty-eight such languages are spoken in this State. It was therefore considered expedient to gather some information about them also. Accordingly, in the last column of the tables, mention has been made of the sample population having different Tribal languages as their mother-tongue. According to the direction of the Deputy Registrar General, a column of percentages has also been added giving the percentage of population speaking languages other than the two main languages concerned for the particular area.

11. Particular attention was given to avoid any confusion arising out of the present linguistic sorting work. The mistakes regarding the code number of the villages and their spelling were also attempted to be rectified by obtaining fresh lists from the respective Collectors of the eight districts. Comparison was also made with the District Census Handbooks to check up the data obtained. The lists obtained from the Collectors were first prepared by Police Stations and then the subsequent columns were filled up with reference to the actual results of sorting. Since the present data was collected only from the sample slips, very earnest attempts were made to check up the figures to ensure that no mistake crept in. A batch of sorters were kept separate to check the results. The sorted slips were also checked up by the only Supervisor that I was able to recruit and by my Stenographer and the Head Clerk. These three personnel worked in the 1951 Census and were thoroughly acquainted with Census techniques. I was also myself present most of the time in the office and checked up the work of sorting and compilation at intervals.

12. The State Report for 1951 Census gives the mother tongue data only for the districts. A statement can be found elsewhere in this brochure containing the figures of percentages of persons having different mother-tongues by Police Stations. The figures for the respective districts have been mentioned at the top of the Police Stations to enable one to study the behaviour of the data regarding mother tongue as we go down to the lesser units. In many cases the comparison may lead to disproportionate results, specially in regard to the tribals who are found to be concentrated in particular areas. In many cases, the district percentages vary widely from the Police Station percentages. This can be only natural as in the border areas the percentage of certain categories of persons can be expected to become more prominent.

13. Since the Report of the States Reorganisation Commission and also the decision of the Government of India taken on it, envisaged no change in the boundaries of this State, the Deputy Registrar General, India thought it expedient not to get the language maps of the respective Police Stations printed. Originally the idea was to incorporate the printed maps in the brochures. But this idea had to be ultimately given up. Working maps, however, were ordered to be prepared for each Police Station in the scale of 1" = 1 mile. This State had no separate existence till 1936. In 1936 parcels of the States of Bihar and Orissa, Madras and Madhya Pradesh were culled out and put together into six districts to form the Orissa State. With the inclusion of the princely states in 1948 and 1949, seven more districts were added bringing Orissa State to its present formation. There are very few areas in this State for which printed maps are available with village boundaries. Printed maps that were available were collected but many of these were found to be so much out of date that they could hardly be made use of. The maps that were required had to be prepared afresh from manuscript maps available in the District Offices. Special staff had to be engaged almost in every case to prepare such maps. Ultimately, however, out of the maps for 56 Police Stations, only 40 could be arranged in proper shape. The only district for which the maps could not be arranged except only for two out of a total of eighteen Police Stations is the district of Koraput. Settlement Operations are in progress in this district for the first time and no working maps even could be arranged in respect of the Police Station of this district for copying out. Hence the working maps, with data plotted on them (each four copies), have been prepared in respect of only 40 Police Station areas in the borders of this State.

14. Since according to original arrangements, maps were to be printed and incorporated in the brochures, a separate note was left at the end of the data for each Police Station mentioning about the difference in the villages as mentioned in the maps and as given in the tables. This was considered necessary owing to the fact that sometimes the lists of villages furnished by the Collectors in respect of Police Stations were not all found in the maps of the Police Stations and some extra villages were found in the maps which could not be traced in the lists. Since the maps are not to be printed, the note loses its significance except when referring to the working maps. The notes are to be found in case of brochures whose printing had advanced by the time the decision not to print the maps, was taken.

15. As mentioned previously, the data that has been incorporated in these brochures is only in respect of the 10% sample slips in which the percentages for persons having different mother-tongues, have been calculated. The villages in this State are mostly very small. Specially in the border areas which are dominated by the Tribals, the villages are situated in dense jungle and hill country. In case of such villages, therefore, ~~errors~~ ^{data} arising out of the sample slips tend to be unreliable. None-the-less, the data that has been collected exhibits a very broad and correct picture regarding the linguistic composition in the border areas and it can be made use of for various statistical and scientific purposes.

16. Since the Orissa Government Press could not undertake the printing job, as its hands were already tied up with other commitments, the work was undertaken in a private press with the approval of the Orissa Government Press according to the directions of the Deputy Registrar General.

17. The maximum strength of sorters that were employed in this office was 18. All these happened to be very temporary employees and for most of them it was their first employment. I am thankful to them for the conscientious and painstaking way in which they discharged their duties. I am particularly grateful to my Stenographer, Sri Balamukunda Mahapatra who was also Stenographer to my predecessor in the 1951 Census and to whom my predecessor paid high compliments in the Administrative Report. He has thorough mastery over the intricacies of tabulation technique and has been particularly useful in the present linguistic sorting work. I must also make special mention of Sri Jameswar Pal, my Head Clerk, who was an outstanding Technical Assistant in the 1951 Census. Very special efforts were necessary to get these persons from their parent offices to the present organisation.

18. I must also express my gratefulness to Sri Rajeshwari Prasad, I. A. S., the Deputy Registrar General, India, for his unfailing courtesy and for the readiness with which he came to my aid in solving the various problems with which the work of villagewise linguistic sorting was literally bristling. I will be failing in my duty if I do not publicly express my gratitude to the Board of Revenue, Orissa, Cuttack, who issued necessary instructions to the Collectors to help in the present work. They were also most ungrudging in their assistance in various other ways whenever any problem requiring solution by the State Government, was put before them. I am also grateful to Sri B. K. Misra, I. A. S., Settlement Officer, Ganjam Dhenkanal Major Settlement for getting various manuscript maps prepared in his office and for sparing his staff in supervising plotting of data on maps.
